

Gavilan Hills Academy and Maggie Kennedy were exactly what we were looking for after finding that our local public school was not able to accommodate us. After searching for various private schools, we finally found the ideal environment for our kids at Gavilan Hills Academy.

The adjustment to a caring environment with a class size of only about 12 students didn't take long for our son. With personal attention from Mrs. Kennedy and all the other teachers, our son thrived. In fact, we enrolled our daughter there as well.

Since leaving Gavilan Hills Academy, both our son and our daughter have consistently ranked in the top few percent in their public high schools. With the skills they learned at GHA, they easily maintain high grades and are looking forward to successful college careers.
